

TULARE COUNTY FARM SAFETY COUNCIL FORMED TO COMBAT HIGH RURAL ACCIDENT RATE

Tulare County Farm Safety Council was formed at a meeting in Visalia last night, with Bob Pontius of Visalia as chairman, to combat an agricultural accident rate that is greater in Tulare county than in any other county in the San Joaquin valley.

Other officers include Bruce Jensen, Visalia, vice chairman; Howard Smith, Tulare secretary and Irv Terrell, Visalia, publicity chairman. A number of county ranchers and representatives of far groups and business organizations were named as an initial steering committee to get the new organization on a permanent, active basis.

Assistance in formulating a farm accident prevention program will be sought by the council through Farm Bureau Centers, Grange Units, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers, Agricultural Veteran classes, California Young Farmers and other farm groups and business organizations related to farming.

During the meeting it was stated that in Tulare county, 939 disabling agricultural accidents (Continued on Page 12)

Hamilton Speaks At Prairie Center Tomorrow Night

Paul Hamilton, secretary of the Production and Marketing administration, will speak tomorrow night (Friday) at a meeting of the Prairie Center Farm Bureau Center, 7:30 P.M. at the Sunnyside school. His subject will be, "PMA Practices for 1951."

New officers of the association—Calvin Hilty, chairman; Stanley Hefner, vice chairman and Leon Wilcox, secretary-treasurer—will be conducting their first meeting of the year. Refreshments of soda pop, coffee and doughnuts will be served.

During the evening, a film, "Realm of the Wild" will be shown, and for the benefit of children, a second film, "Mighty Mouse."

Regular business of the Farm Center will also be conducted during the evening.

CERTIFIED SEED BRINGS BETTER RETURNS ACCORDING TO RANCHERS IN TULARE COUNTY WHO USE IT

By RALPH L. WORRELL
Farm Advisor

"You want to know why I plant Certified seed? Well, I'll tell you," said the prominent Tulare district rancher. "It's because I'm getting 20 per cent better crops now than when I planted ordinary field-run stuff. And there's another thing. Certified seed is all guaranteed as to variety and so it all matures uniformly in height and at the same time. That makes the field easier to harvest and puts more grain into the bag instead of on the ground."

That statement pretty well sums up the reason why the Agricultural Extension service of the University of California has been promoting for many years the use of Certified Blue Tag seed. Or to look at it another way. Livestock men know the value of getting good quality stock instead of scrub stuff; why shouldn't a farmer exercise just as much care in selecting the seed he buys for his crop.

An Orange Cove farmer who used to be in the Ducor area said his grain fields were always a mixture of varieties and he was always bringing in more weed seeds until he started to plant Certified seed instead of ordinary stuff. Since then his fields have improved a great deal in appearance and yield.

GRANGE GETS INFORMATION ON CLOUD SEEDING

Information on cloud seeding to produce rain was presented by F. R. Farnsworth, president of the Southern Sierra corporation, an organization that has entered into contract with the Precipitation Control company of Phoenix, Arizona, at a meeting of the Porterville Grange, Monday evening.

Mr. Farnsworth stated that cloud seeding flights have already started and will continue through the winter and spring. He said that if only a small amount of additional rain is secured, cost of the operation will be more than offset. Controlled bush burning was also discussed by Mr. Farnsworth, who asked the Grange to study this new idea of improving range feed and water conditions.

Named as lecturer to replace the late Mrs. Peter Lentzner was Mrs. Victor Bowker.

Certified Blue Tag seed is worthwhile for the rancher to plant for three reasons. It is pure, has high germination, and is disease free.

Ninety-eight per cent purity must be met by all Certified grain seed. That means there can be only a mighty small amount of other crop seeds, stem ends, etc., in the seed bag—and absolutely no noxious weed seeds at all. Compare that with what comes out of the ordinary seed bag.

Certified seed must meet a germination standard of at least 90 percent. In other words, at least nine seeds out of 10 must be able to sprout. This alone could mean (Continued on Page 12)

The Christmas spirit came in evidence at Springville when merchants of that community opened their "Christmas Tree Lane" thru the business district. Members of a merchant committee secured trees from the mountains, placed them through the business district and turned on the decoration lights this week.

CLOUD SEEDING IS STARTED AS SOUTHERN SIERRA CORP. ASKS FOR FARMER SUPPORT

Cloud-seeding operations to increase rainfall in the southeastern Tulare county area officially started during the storm of the past week-end under provisions of a contract between the Southern Sierra Corporation, a non-profit organization, and the Precipitation Control company of Phoenix, Arizona.

The new, non-profit corporation was officially approved by the state of California last week and the cloud-seeding contract was signed last Thursday night at a meeting of corporation officers at the home of Secretary Ralph Jones in Porterville.

Area to be covered by the operation includes, generally, from Lewis Creek on the north to Kern river on the south; from the Sierra summit to 99 highway.

Contract for the cloud-seeding operation calls for a minimum of $15,000. The work is done from a specially-equipped airplane that puts silver iodide into storm clouds, causing a reaction that results in rainfall, or snowfall. If flying hours beyond the contract are desired, cost it $125 per hour.

Permanent officers of the Southern Sierra corporation, elected last Thursday, are: F. R. Farnsworth, White River, president; William Cloer, Porterville, vice president; Ralph Jones, Porterville, secretary and Art Griswold, Springville; Howard McClosky and Clarence Bradford, Terra Bella; P. J. Divizich, Ducor and Dick Carleton, Granite Station, directors.

Funds to finance the operation are now being raised by the corporation through solicitation of cattlemen and ranchers in the area to be covered by the cloud-seeding work. An amount of four cents an acre is being asked for rangeland and 15 cents an acre for cultivated land.

Week-End Rains Put Heavy Flow In Tule River

Rain in the mountains and valley area of southeastern Tulare county over the past week-end again put a heavy flow of water into the Tule river and Porter slough, although the flow was not nearly as great as during the flood period of November 19 and both channels handled the water without danger to areas adjacent to the river.

Some damage was reported, however, at the bridge above the Springville Soda Spring, the approach to which was washed out completely two weeks.

Daybell weather station in Porterville reports .68 inches for the week-end storm to bring the season total to 3.16 inches. United States Forest Service reports shows 1.79 inches at Springville for a season total of 10.12; 1.98 inches at Hot Springs with season total 13.36 inches; 2.86 inches at Johnsondale for a season total of 16.24 inches and .53 inches at Isabella for 3.55 inches total.

Ranchers in the Ducor area report that the storm brought the best rainfall of the season in their area. Report is that snowpack in the higher mountains is light at the present time.

the area of operation are asked to mail their checks in an amount equal to their acreage, to Ralph Jones, Secretary, Southern Sierra Corporation, 1411 Second street, Porterville. Officers of the corporation are seeking cooperation from all ranchers and cattlemen in the area.

Mr. Farnsworth points out that cloud-seeding has been successfully carried out in agricultural areas of Arizona by the Precipitation Control company for the past three years and operations on the Carissa plains in Kern county last season were so successful that ranchers of that area are again contracting this year, with assistance from the county of Kern.

"Even if we can add only a small percentage to the annual rainfall, the great benefit will far offset the cost," Mr. Farnsworth states.

He points out further that even a half inch of rain at the right time in the spring, when storms often move in without rainfall, would make the difference between a poor crop of grain and range feed, and a good crop. In addition, all ranchers benefit through the increased water supply that would result from a heavier rainfall and a good snow-pack in the high mountains.

Number of meetings to discuss the cloud-seeding operation have been held in southern Tulare and Northern Kern counties. A great amount of interest was shown and

Project Tour For Success Club

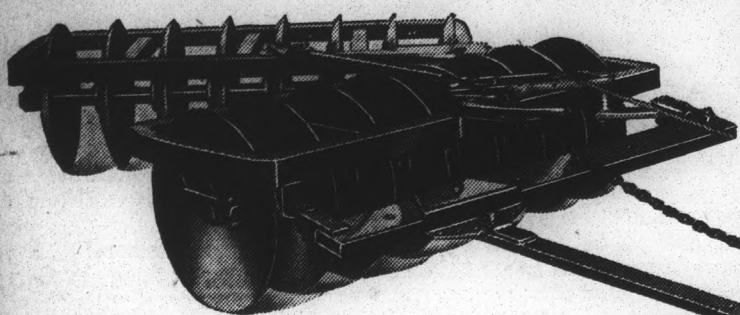

Members of the Success Valley 4-H club conducted a project tour last Saturday, with a number of member-projects visited and with the tour ending at the O. C. Mays ranch where a weiner roast was enjoyed.

At the next meeting of the club, December 21 at the Citrus-South Tule school, Jerry Jones, Pat Smith and Noel Wheeler will give project reports. At the last meeting of the club, Karen Mays gave a project report and President Kenley Mays distributed literature on various types of projects.

Bill Berry and Lester Reed attended the Trail Hound Field Trial at Woody Sunday. Three of Bill's hounds were entered. Jack won line and tree in the third heat and came in third in the semi-finals. Ross won his line but lost in the finals. Wilson ran a good line but didn't win. Considering the number of hounds entered from all over the state, Bill can be very proud of his hounds.

Sermon In Miniature

By Rev. George W. Crighton
Presbyterian Community Church
Terra Bella, California
"Silas, the Substitute" Scripture, II Corinthians 1:13-24.

Whenever I read of a dog going out of his way to be nice to a human being or a human being going out of his way to be nice to a dog it catches my attention. It is an impressive sight to see a seeing-eye dog helping a blind human.

In the November issue of Reader's Digest, 1949, there was the following story: "The dog pushed open the screen door of the cafe and held it while his young master entered, then guided him to a counter stool and lay down at his feet. The sympathetic customers were astonished when the young man picked up the morning paper and said to the man next to him, 'The news looks better today, doesn't it?'"

Noticing his neighbor's amazement, the young man explained, "I used to be blind, and Prince led me around this town for five years. After I recovered my sight,

I tried not using him, but he would not eat and acted like he was going to die. So I'm weaning him away from his old job gradually. I've got him to the point where he's content to just bring me in here for my morning coffee. Guess you might say I'm leading Prince around now."

The blind man has no choice but one—either to be lead around by another man or else by a substitute. Silas was a substitute and like most substitutes was essential. He was a substitute for Barnabas. And what a substitute! He preached with his beloved superior in the face of violence and enmity, faced mobs by day and stealthy death by night. They were chained together in a Phil-and scourged in the market place, were chained together in a philippian jail. The stripes they accepted as God's chevrons; despite the chains, they sang through the night.

Some must play the part of regulars; some must be ready to serve as substitutes. Is one more important than the other? Substitutes are sometimes better. The measure of our lives will be the extent to which we set our hands and hearts to tasks in God's name.

FINS FOR FEATHERS

By Phil The Forester

The fish and game commission meeting held in Los Angeles last Friday must have been just about the shortest or record as it lasted only two hours. Very little of general interest transpired except to clarify the rules and regulations concerned with the issuance of permits to take deer because of crop depredation.

It seems that in the past no uniform set of rules had been issued and some wardens were enforcing restrictions as they believed proper. As a result certain land owner permittees were able to do some things that others were not and in addition there was some abuse of the privilege.

New regulations which will be printed for the guidance of all will include: Permits may not be transferred except to members of the holder's family, his employees or a peace officer; a state hunting license not required; animal may be killed in any manner except by poison; may be killed at any time, day or night, regardless of open season; must be killed on the property described in the permit; no city or county shooting ordinance to be violated; special tags to be attached to animal and carcass must be disposed of as directed by the warden except that it may not be used by the permittee. It is generally understood that all such meat will be directed to charitable or other public institutions.

The commission also approved 48 renewal applications for the operation of private shooting preserves known legally as Game Management Areas. Area operators may hunt pheasants on these preserves for a period of 50 days and may take six birds per day, male or female.

Operators must release commercial pheasants on their areas and the legal authorized take must not exceed 70 per cent of the release.

Organized sportsmen have been almost 100 per cent opposed to the so-called Game Management Areas as they are not open to the public; the season on a State game bird is longer with a larger bag limit than enjoyed by the unattached hunter and the known fact that about 80 per cent of the birds taken by the operators are wild pheasants and not the commercial birds liberated.

However, the law which permits such practice is on the books and the commissioners feel that as long as such is the case, there isn't much they can do but issue a license if it is requested. Sportsmen have tried to have the provision removed from the code at each session of the legislature for the past few years but without success. What will happen this coming session remains to be seen.

Wardens tell me the ducks and geese are really starting to come into the west side and with all the water in the area, the unattached hunter should have fair shooting. The season opens a noon, December 15.

Hardwood olive cuttings may be taken in December and stored in moist sand, peat moss or shavings. These and other propagative material should be planted in February.

RIVER CLEARING WORK LAST YEAR SHOULD BE APPRECIATED NOW

Perhaps the most illogical comment that we have heard concerning the recent Tule river flood is that river-clearing work done by the County of Tulare and the United States Army Engineers contributed to damage from flood water two weeks ago.

Story is that the engineers left debris along the river to wash down in the flood, back up water and cause overflows.

Actually, debris taken from the river by the engineers was burned and the river channel was deepened, smoothed out and widened in some places. Without doubt flood damage would have been greater if this work had not been done.

Of course, river clearing work did not extend along the entire channel of the Tule from the mountains to Tulare lake. Funds were simply not available for a project of that magnitude. And of course, debris did come down the river, water did overflow, but if the river clearing work of the county and the engineers had not been done, more debris would have been in the river and more water would have gotten out of the channel.

It is absurd to say that work of the engineers contributed to flood damage. Actually, that work should be highly appreciated now by persons along the river and it is to be hoped that funds will be made available in the near future to prevent and limit future flood damage through more extensive river-clearing projects, as part of an overall flood control program.

ONE OF the best stories concerning generosity coming out of the recent flood was action of the Southern Tulare County Sportsmen's association. As you probably recall, the sportsmen had a turkey shoot scheduled at the Porterville Municipal airport on what turned out to be "flood Sunday." And the boys were ready with a free lunch of beans and some 400 buns. When the flood cancelled the turkey shoot, the beans and buns were taken to the American Legion hall where they were passed out to the exacuees who needed them . . . Incidentally, the turkey shoot is on again, this time for December 10.

NOTICE THE summer flowers still in bloom and the fresh local vegetables still growing? Even cotton is still in bloom, some of it after it has been defoliated . . . Quite a season, this November, 1950.

LEST YOU forget—the Porterville Veterans' Memorial district board is still apparently going ahead with plans to condemn property on Olive street for a veterans' memorial building . . . Lest you forget further, this same board went on record last November saying it would not condemn property . . . And for the sake of the record, we still stand by our original statement that condemnation for the sake of a building that in no way is essential to the general welfare of the community is a contemptible action that should be actively fought in this community . . . It is a sad state of affairs when public officials resort to this type of blackjack action.

BACK TO the flood—Boy Scouts proved they know the meaning of their motto, "Be Prepared" when they were suddenly called upon to assist in a number of emergency jobs resulting from the flood. They came through in excellent fashion and they and their leaders are to be congratulated.

Farm Support Program Shows Over-All Profit

Although a loss of $414 million has occurred since 1933 in government price support of potatoes, the government price support program as a whole has shown a $45 million profit, according to E. H. Spoor, chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration State committee.

Loans and investments from 1933 through June of 1950 on basic commodities ran $9.9 billion; loans and purchases for all commodities, basic and others, $13 billion. Losses sustained on four of the basic crops were offset by gains of $208 million on cotton and $5 million on tobacco.

Strawberries

Strawberries planted in the fall should bear at least a partial crop next spring, according to Farm Advisor Vincent H. Schweers, who states that in Tulare county the varieties of Oregon Plum, Shasta and Lassen do well.

However, Mr. Schweers points out that with the everbearing varieties of Twentieth Century, Rockhill and Streamliner available, there is likely to be no advantage to fall planting, since with these varieties, planting can be done in March and April.

Conservation

Congress has placed a limit of $2,500 on the amount that any one farmer can receive for farm conservation practices, according to L. D. Flory, chairman of the Tulare County PMA committee.

THE OLD DAYS

From miscellaneous files of pioneer Porterville newspapers, provided through the courtesy of Howard J. Frame, Porterville.

June 23, 1893

Miss Ora Rhodes left on the 14th for the world's fair. She will visit with relatives in Arizona and other points until July, when she will be joined by Miss Mary Thompson of Plano, at Kansas City, and go on.

Miss Thompson cannot leave with Miss Rhodes since she has to remain here until her grain crop is harvested.

Evans and Sontag are no longer guests of Tulare county. On this morning's early train, they were taken to Fresno and lodged in the county jail there. The preparations for removal were carried on very quietly and not a dozen persons in Visalia, including officers, knew the noted criminals were being taken away.

It is stated that Mrs. Chris Evans has entered into an agreement with a phonograph man for reproduction of the Stone Corral fight and for several speeches from Evans and Sontag. That will doubtless be a money-making scheme.

The county board of education has awarded a high school certificate to W. F. Williamson of Plano and a grammar school certificate to Milton A. Harper of Woodville.

There are parties going every day to the hills. They must find it cool, as a fire these mornings it not uncomfortable here.

L. J. Redfield and his wife went to San Francisco on the 15th.

M. C. Boatman and wife went on the 18th to San Francisco.

An assessment of $1 per share has been levied on the Pioneer water stock to pay for the damage by the high water of last February.

Parties are going and coming from the swamp after blackberries all the time, but report a scarcity at present as the first crop has ripened and been pretty thoroughly gone over.

Mrs. Ned Connor has been in Fresno for the several days past.

News was received this morning that Hon. Leland Stanford, founder of the great university, is dead. His death occurred at Palo Alto.

Robert A. Maddox, the Porterville counterfeiter, was yesterday morning sentenced by Judge Morrow of San Francisco to one year's imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Downey and their son, Berthol, visited two days with the family of C. H. Rendell in Porterville. They made the trip from Tulare on bicycles and covered the distance between the two towns in four hours without any particular effort to make speed.

James Howell has received the appointment of postmaster at Porterville to take the place of C. G. Belknap, whose term expired.

A teacher's certificate has been issued at Visalia to S. L. Martindale of Springville and Miss Lizzie Harper of Woodville.

Great quantities of grain, principally barley, are being hauled to the mill.

Peak Demand On Olive Trees

Flower parts start forming in olive buds about March 15 and develop rapidly until bloom in May, says H.T. Hartman of the pomology division of the University of California, college of agriculture.

Occurring at the same time is the principal flush of vegetative growth in April and May, this causes a peak demand on the stored food reserves in the tree at that period.

To meet this demand, the olive grower should have his trees in top condition during the critical spring months to help bring about a satisfactory fruit set. This can best be done by maintaining ample soil moisture during the spring, fertilizing with nitrogen in the previous winter, and securing adequate stored reserves of carbohydrates by encouraging heavy and healthy foliage.

HEATERS NEEDED

Experience in Orange county indicates that in citrus orchards where wind machines are used for frost protection, addition of a few heaters per acre provides better protection that where no supplemental heat is used.

GUESTS

Bill Walker, cloud-seeding pilot for the Precipitation Control company of Phoenix, Arizona, and Dave Merrill, of Taft, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Farnsworth near White River.

TREES RESPOND

Indications that lemon trees respond to applications of phosphate is seen in experiments conducted at the Citrus Experiment station in Riverside. Lemon trees deficient in phosphate are marked by brown to black leaf spots and foliage with a general gray-green to bronze color.

M-M-M,
Sunbeam's
GREAT WITH JAM!

Mm-m-b, "milk-improved" Sunbeam and jam make a great team. Every loaf of rich, delicious Sunbeam is made with the nonfat solids of 7 ounces of milk! Look for Sunbeam Bread at your grocer's today!

LET'S EAT . . . WITH MISS SUNBEAM

Jam Or Jelly Surface Mold

You often wonder if it is safe to use jams and jellies that you have 'put up' if they have mold on the surface when you open the jar. Here is the answer from the laboratories of the food scientists.

"Jam or jelly with a small amount of mold on the surface is safe to eat. The high-solid content of the jelly or jam prevents the growth of the botulinus bacteria even if the mold has neutralized a little of the acid.

Fig jam, however, is very low in acid and if it shows sign of mold the jam should be destroyed."

Reducing Diet With Enriched Bread

Too lose weight and keep your health and be economical . . . eat enriched bread with every meal! At the American Dietetic Association meeting held recently in Washington D. C., Dr. Ruth Leverton, nutritionist from the University of Nebraska, reported on reducing diet experiments that included enriched bread and butter in every meal.

Twelve University of Nebraska co-eds followed the low-calory diet for eight weeks and found that they each lost about 2.8 lbs. per week with no ill effects.

The campus experiments showed that the girls could follow this easy plan at a cost of 68 cents a day per girl. Leaving bread out of the diet would have been expensive. Enriched bread, such as Sunbeam, offers necessary vitamins, B1, Riboflavin, Niacin, calcium, and iron as well as the extra components of non-fat milk, offers all this at the lowest cost.

Dr. Leverton pointed out that the important things in dieting are a low-calory count and the highest possible food values in vitamins, minerals, etc. at the least cost.

During her research, Dr. Leverton served these typical meals:

BREAKFAST

Half cup of orange or grapefruit juice.
One slice of Enriched Bread (such as Sunbeam Bread.)
One teaspoon of butter.
One poached egg.
One glass of skim milk.

LUNCH

Two slices of Enriched Bread, (such as Sunbeam Bread)
One teaspoon of butter.
One glass of skim milk.
One tomato.
One medium apple.

DINNER

One-third pound of cube steak.
One small boiled or baked potato.
Lettuce salad.
One slice of Enriched Bread (such as Sunbeam Bread).
One teaspoon of butter.
One small dipper of fruit sherbert.

Marmalade Time Is Here

Citrus fruit with the peel is especially good for making marmalade. The flavor and pectin are just right. Use one cup of sugar for each cup of fruit and water combined when making citrus marmalades; if commercial pectin is used follow the directions on the container.

Marmalade should be cooked until it is thick enough to remain in place without spreading when a small amount is placed on a cool plate. The syrup should give the "jellytest", too.

If your marmalade doesn't jell, don't recook it. That would give it a strong flavor and turn it a dark color. Let it stand in a shallow container for 24 or 36 hours . . . this should help thicken it.

Serve plenty of marmalade and toast made from Sunbeam Enriched Bread . . . keep your family happy, healthy, and well-fed.

USEFUL AND PURTY

Vases and bowls with the proper frogs or holders for the flowers are always welcome gifts. This year there is a wide variety of ceramics, coppers, brasses, pewters, and other interesting materials made into vases and bowls.

Everyone in the family enjoys pretty dishes. Cup and saucer sets, cream, sugar, salt and pepper, candy, nut, relish dishes and containers all please. Large plates and bowls, both shallow as trays and deeper designs are here. They are made of wood, pewter washed copper, brass, and ceramics, keep in mind that they are useful as decoration as well as for food service.

A beautiful chrome and plastic cocktail shaker that doubles as a refrigerator container for water and juice is on the market this year, also glasses with built-on defrosting material . . . so coasters or diapers aren't needed. Every family will like the unbreakable metal glasses in delightful colors with iridescent finish.

BOOK SHELF

By DOROTHY MARGO

A book was given the Porterville Public Library this week, by a former Lindsay resident, who now lives in Berkeley. It is quite the most beautiful book the Library has acquired this year. MENABONI'S BIRDS, is the title, and the authors are Athos and Sara Menaboni. The full page plates, many in color, are as lovely as anything drawn by Audubon, and the text is a delight, just a friendly visit with Mrs. Menaboni as she chats about the birds she lives with.

Three books in which excellent photography plays a major part, have been added to the Memorial Collection of the Library recently. TWO CAPTAINS WEST by Albert and Jane Salisbury is a fine example of the unity that can be achieved between text and photographs. The authors followed the trail taken by Lewis and Clark in 1804, photographing the magnificent country the explorers crossed. The text of the book has been taken from the diaries kept by Lewis and Clark, and their maps have been followed, with the result that the reader feels he is actually accompanying the explorers into the wilderness.

WEST COAST PORTRAIT is, as its name implies, a picture of our coast from Seattle to San Diego, with nearly two hundred wonderfully expressive photographs, many woodcuts, and a half-dozen double page color prints. Much of the photography has been done by Josef Muench, and the editing is the work of Joyce Muench. The work of this team is always a delight, as can be seen in another fine example in the same Memorial Collection. ALONG SIERRA TRAILS has much the feeling of Edward Weston's photographs, but the artist, Josef Muench, has been most successful in finding and photographing for us, the little out-of-the-way corners of the Sierras, as well as the tremendous vistas we are more accustomed to. It is good to find books that can bring the mountains to us, during the months we cannot go to them.

STORE CHICKEN FEED IN COVERED CANS

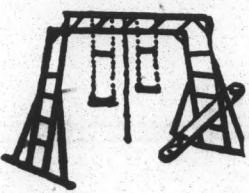

Because it is difficult for rats to find food in winter, greater care is needed in the storage of such items as chicken feed and small quantities of grain. Covered galvanized steel ash or garbage cans are convenient storage containers which frustrate even the hungriest of rats.

Keep Christmas Trees Green, Fire-Resistant

When it's time to decorate the Christmas tree, don't overlook the importance of making it fire-resistant as well as beautiful. A tinder-dry tree can burst into flames in a matter of seconds when ignited by the finest of sparks.

A little extra care will make the tree more resistant to fire, although the danger cannot be eliminated entirely.

The first thing to do is to select a fresh, green tree. Then place it in a pail of water as soon as it is brought home. A handy galvanized steel water pail or tub is ideal for this purpose and the same container can serve also as a practical and inexpensive tree stand.

Trim the branches from the lower part of the tree and stand the trunk in the center of the pail or tub. Pack wet sand firmly around the trunk. Keep the sand wet during the entire time the tree is in the house. The branches absorb moisture from the sand and this slows the drying.

The container can be covered with a white bed sheet to make an attractive snow-covered base.

Winter Forces Rats To Seek Indoor Shelter

Winter is the time to be especially vigilant in defending the home premises from possible invasion by rats. Cold weather forces them to seek cozy indoor hiding places and once they're in, it's difficult to get rid of them.

Close up all openings through which rats might be able to enter buildings. Use every possible means to keep them from finding shelter any place on the premises.

Rats soon move to other surroundings when deprived of easy access to food. Furthermore, lack of food limits the number and the hardness of the offspring, and this automatically serves to reduce the number.

Garbage is a common source of the rat's food supply. Therefore, all garbage and refuse should be placed in covered, rat-proof containers until it is permanently disposed of. Garbage cans made of galvanized steel are the best answer to the problem. Sturdy and rust-resistant, these cans are all metal and have close-fitting covers.

Varieties And Uses Of Apples

This is the best and most complete information I've ever found on apples. Clip this article and keep it in your recipe file; these varieties are found in our western markets.

SUMMER APPLES—Gravenstein, July through September; Greenish yellow, overlaid with stripes of light and dark red; medium to large; firm, crisp, juicy, medium acid; good for eating fresh and in salads; good cooker. Must be used quickly. No summer apple is a good keeper. (There are many other summer apples, including many in the Transparent group which are very tart and are fine for pies and sauce. The Wealthy, a fall apple, is used green in August as a cooker.)

FALL APPLES—Grimes Golden, September through January; bright yellow with russet dots; medium to small size; very firm, tender, crisp, moderately juicy; medium acid; excellent for eating and salads; good cooker.

JONATHAN—October through February; bright red over yellow, and striped with carmine; tender, crisp, juicy; medium acid; fine for dessert, extra good for salads, pies and sauce, good baker; named after Jonathan Chapman, known as Johnny Appleseed because he introduced apples in wide areas of the Appalachians.

WEALTHY—August through December; greenish or pale yellow marked with stripes and splashes of red which sometimes cover the fruit; medium size; firm, juicy, medium acid; good for salad and eating, extra good for pies, sauce and baking. (Note: Only the unripe fruit for cooking purposes is available before October.)

WINTER APPLES: Baldwin, November through March; bright red over yellow or green; medium to large; hard, crisp, juicy, medium acid; fair to good for dessert and salads; extra good for pies and sauce.

BEN DAVIS: November through May; usually glossy, greenish yellow washed with bright red splashed with carmine; medium to large; hard, somewhat coarse, not so juicy, not a dessert apple but a fair cooker.

XMAS Stockngs

Back up to number one place go stockings on this year's Hit Parade of Christmas presents. They are treasured even when there are plenty to go around, but since the curtailment in the supply of nylon yarn, the inadequate supply of some types of hosiery will make them even more gleefully received this year. Gotham has prepared this summary for helpful reference in choosing the types of hosiery you want for each one on the distaff side of your gift list:

Ultra-sheer (15 denier 64 gauge) with secret reinforcement in the heel and toe for longer wear, but all the while looking like a sandal-foot, making it wearable with either very open or closed shoes. It has a flattering dark seam.

The 60 gauge 15 denier stocking is a sheer but sturdy stocking for dress wear—many women have gotten used to the ultra-sheer stocking and want nothing else. The fineness of the gauge on this one gives it sturdiness but sacrifices none of the wispiness.

For sheerness but dependability even in an accident, there is the "lace" stocking (15 denier 54 gauge) with its mesh so fine that the eye ran hardly see it, but is run-proof none-the-less.

All these types of stockings are available for Christmas giving in a range of colors to blend with fashion's top fabrics. These are all $1.95, other brands are $1.65 and $1.95.

A pad of black velvet polishes dark hair. Pink or white velvet does the same for blonde and white hair. This is a beauty trick from grandma's day.

GALVANIZED GARBAGE CANS PROTECT HEALTH

A sanitary, rat-proof garbage can costs very little. Yet it is an important and necessary factor in sanitation and the prevention of disease. For this reason, many health departments have established minimum requirements for garbage containers. They must be metal to keep rats out and they must be covered as a protection against rats, insects and odors. Sturdy garbage cans made of rust-resistant galvanized steel meet these requirements and can be purchased from any hardware dealer.

MEETING REPORTS

Reprints containing summaries of information and charts presented at meetings of citrus growers of Tulare county, during October, are available at the office of the county farm advisor, postoffice building, Visalia.

Week's prize heckle . . . Bob Mishler telling Andy Morrison that as of today he'll no longer be in his old place of business, that it'll be locked up . . . and how is Andy planning on getting the huge lite fixture off the high ceiling and into the new C. of C. Bldg.? That's a merry lil' Xmas thought! Twin to the one you're having about your shopping list . . . here's the answer for you . . . call EDWARD'S PHOTOGRAPHY STUDIO, 1385-J. Save money and give the finest of all gifts. Appointments at night and in your home.

Saw the first truck-load of Xmas trees come in to town Monday. That settles it . . . time is here, clap on your bonnet and bustle off to BREY'S BOOK SHELF, 600 N. "D". There are gifts for every member of the family and all your friends. With the Xmas trees in town, there's not a moment to spare on the Xmas card buying. Personalized cards from Brey's are best and selection of plain ones is perfect. If I tried to list all gifts in Marie's shop, I'd be like the picture . . . that's what happened to Santa, got so enthusiastic shopping at the Bookshelf, he's got too big a load for the chimney! Brey's is the place to buy books for all.

To quote Anton Konda, "Even the weather man sounds like a politician!" Forecast the other day said, "The situation did not look favorable for fair weather." "No definite prediction could be made." I'm not so cagey; I'm willing to stick my neck out again. Few weeks ago I said I hoped it'd rain enuf to drown me . . . it did! Now, I say, "If you fall to take your shoes to CARROLL'S SHOP SHOP, Putnam and Division, you deserve to have the slough coursing between your toes!" Mighty damp these days with the stitching undone on your shoes and terrible costly in sox to be walking around with holes in your soles!

Looks like the Kings River wants no part of that dam business. Every time they get a new start, the old boy up and kicks 'em out again! Gives me a thrill to think there's enuf life in that fine river to fight back. As a kid I learned to respect, love, and cooperate with that mighty stream . . . shooting the rapids in a canoe and swimming across it taught me its power.

Went by the new state hospital site the other day. The buildings are going up all over the place and fast. Loveliest place to live I've ever seen! 'Fraid I'm pretty old and dumb to learn to be a nurse; but I betcha if I practise I could learn to be an epileptic . . . then I could stay there and enjoy the beautiful view! By the way, are you a beautiful view? It's party and "for fancy" time now, better call 107-W and make an appointment at FLORENCE PEAK'S BEAUTY SALON for a new Don-O-Wave permanent. They really are tops! You're sure to be able to get an appointment at a convenient time with three operators working. They don't swear to turn you out a raving beauty . . . they will make you look your best.

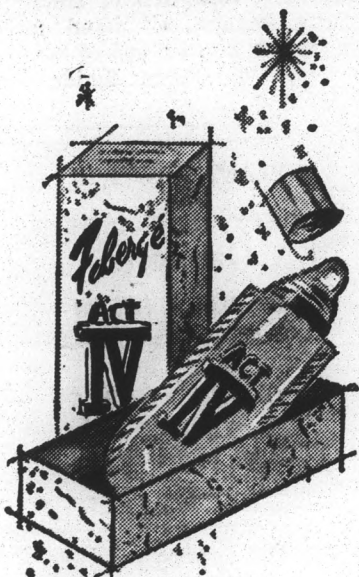

Reminds me my Scotch ancestors always said that Burns poem about seeing ourselves as others see us told the literal truth about a birth of mirrors in Scotland in those days . . . as well as the figurative truth of blindness to our own faults. You'd all find your houses much more attractive as well as your appearance if you'd give the house Xmas presents of mirrors. BREY-WRIGHT LUMBER CO. has mirrors to fit on doors, ovals and oblongs to go over fire places and mirrors to cover walls. That's the quickest way to enlarge a room! A gift mirror will rate you a kiss as illustrated and help you to be more kissable as well!

I almost didn't beat the train across Putnam in the fog the other morn. Have had it drawn to my attention that there are wig-wags on Olive and Morton . . . Why not on Putnam? Funerals are costly . . . with Xmas here, I'm bargain hunting. Latest specials are: potatoes $1.95 a hundred lbs.; Delicious apples $2.50 a box; cooking apples (red) $2.25 a box; Cacaba melons 5c a lb.; Pippin apples (best quality I've ever seen) by the lb.; and new crop oranges, juicy and sweet. All vegetables and fruit buys are at the PORTER-VILLE PRODUCE on Orange at "C". Last time I stopped by there were still tomatoes from the Steiff's own ranch for almost give-away prices.

Looks like most of the Xmas shopping thus far has been for the kids. Adult gift items are moving much slower. Old hand in merchandising explained to me that that's always true when people feel a bit short on money, what they have they spend on the kids. For those of you who want to make your money stretch as far as possible, send your cleaning all to PROCTOR'S CLEANERS, Putnam and 4th. The free "Retexturing" that you get there, replaces thru the steam, the natural oils that cleaning removes from the fibres. The re-vitalized materials, renewed color tones, lively fabric feel, resistance to wrinkles and soiling. All that at no extra cost!

Shopping note: (Don't all rush out and mob the merchants) But the truth is that there are a number of Xmas items for sale this year that will not be around next year . . . if things continue in the world as they've been going. Foil materials are no more, according to a wholesaler I interviewed this morn. Even some candy bars, I observe, are wrapped in wax paper again after being in foil since W. W. II. Lots of the luxury items and especially luxury packaging will go. You probably don't need to worry too much . . . what makes you think any of us'll be here . . . or the world for that matter . . . to be hanging up tinsle trim and tin angles next Xmas?

After the show is over... it's time for Act IV Fabergé's new, new perfume, the gayest gift of all! The jewel-like FABERGÉ "Touch Control" applicator, filled with Act IV perfume in gold-engraved white leather purse pouch, gift boxed, 2.50

BARN THEATER STAGE WHISPERS

WELL WE'VE finished that one off dept: The long distance cast of "You Can't Take It With You" has reluctantly folded its tent now and stolen wearily back to their homes, all promising to sleep for a week or so, and swearing that they'll never look at the Barn again. They will though. All you have to do with the stage struck it ask 'em, that's all—just ask 'em.

VERY YOUNG old trouper dept: Rickie Keck proved himself to be very much a trouper when during the opening moments of "Tom Sawyer's Treasure Hunt" he cut his hand on the edge of the jam jar. He never batted an eye but played the act through with a bleeding hand. Nothing serious but a little unnerving.

THE PHILADELPHIA STORY has the whole place spinning now, with Ralph Nixon as chief spinner. It's being well whipped into shape, with some rehearsals lasting well into the wee small hours. Opens Friday!

LOBBY DISPLAY during Philly Story will include a perfectly fascinating collection of miniature circus wagons, all hand made by Chester Slusser, one of the few members of Circus Builders of America.

Pictures Lose Their Value When Interest In Them Is Lost, Says Home Advisor

By CLARA E. COWGILL
Home Advisor

If you can no longer remember the pictures hanging in your room, it is time to change. Pictures lose their value when you lose interest in them.

The subject of the picture is important, of course, but there are other tricks to making pictures interesting. First, keep the frames simple and in proportion to the size of the picture.

Hang a unit of two pictures with the figures in the picture facing toward the space between them. This creates a closer feeling between the two. The size and shape of the wall space is important in hanging pictures. Miniatures become lost in a large wall area.

Consider the furniture, too. A picture hung over a piece of furniture will appear to have added weight and body. Let the lines of the furniture coincide with those in the picture.

Hang pictures close to the wall. The tilted picture is a carryover from the days when pictures were hung so high they had to be tilted to be seen.

Cotton Passed Season Peak

WOMAN'S CLUB DECEMBER NEWS

"Bible Day" was the theme of the Porterville Women's Club luncheon meeting, Monday, December 4. The Reverend George W. Crichton of the Terra Bella Presbyterian Church was speaker of the day.

Mrs. Howard Beard, accompanied by Mrs. William Robbins, lead the pledge and singing of America. Mrs. Edith Willey, Bibly Day Chairman, lead the members in the Lord's Prayer.

In his address, "The Light of the World", Mr. Crichton pointed out that it is the impact of the Bible on civilization and not the mere ownership of a book that gives the Bible its force. Unfortunately, in these times there is a tendency to use the Bible as a cloak of respectability, rather than as a guide to living.

When Bibles were more scarce there was a greater value placed upon them both intrinsically and as a moral force. Mr. Crichton displayed a magazine lay-out of the Book of Luke which has recently been published with illustrations. It is an effort to put some of the more famous books of the Bible in magazine form.

The feature display was a collection of old Bibles borrowed from members. Of particular interest was a group of replicas of 16th century Bibles loaned by the Reverend Mr. French of Poplar.

Mrs. R. C. Ladage, Mrs. George Achterberg, and Mrs. Marcus Jones decorated the tables and foyer with beautiful arrangements of fir, holly, Christmas ornaments, candles, and an old-fashioned Christmas Card scene.

Mrs. Willis Goldsmith lit tapers in the Memorial Service in memory of Mrs. Peter Lentzner. Mrs. Ray Billingsley and Mrs. Leo Pohlman were introduced as new board members replacing Mrs. Lentzner and Mrs. John Hoppe, who has moved to Southern California.

Mrs. W. S. Stanley, civic chairman, displayed the 4th prize ribbon awarded the club float in the Armistice Day Parade. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Stanley for her work on the float.

Mrs. Herbert Metz presented a resolution to the club recommending the recall of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The club went on record as favoring the action and the resolution was sent to the State President of Women's Clubs.

The A Cappella girls chorus from Bartlett, under the direction of Mary Backus, presented a program of Christmas Carols.

"American Way" Subject Of B.P.W.

Business and Professional Women's Club of Porterville entertained guests at a dinner meeting in the Legion Hall last Monday night. Among the guests were 35 heads of Service Clubs and others prominent in community affairs.

Miss Jeanette Wheeler, a teacher from Shafter presented her "Flannel Board Story" of "The American Way of Living." Miss Wheeler presented sharply and concisely, the difference between living under a Democracy and other forms of government.

It was pointed out that the United States, with only six per cent of the land in the world and seven per cent of the world's population, has created forty-five per cent of the world's wealth. The standard of living enjoyed in the U. S. is unequalled anywhere else.

Miss Wheeler explained that to improve understanding of the American Way of Life, "Freedom Forum" has been organized with the following objectives:

1. To identify the encroachment upon Democracy of Socialism and Communism.
2. To define what the American Way of Life is, and how it is superior.
3. To provide the information to help people understanding what makes the American Way of Life work.
4. To inspire people to fight for their freedoms which make up the American Way of Life.

The speaker stated that the objectives of Socialism and Communism are identical, that one achieves its purpose by evolution, the other by revolution. Her thought provoking analysis of world conditions was warmly received by the audience.

Mary Backus who presented a group of American Folk songs, was accompanied by Edna Hehn, Edna Grace Bingham, Charlotte Willeby, and Karen Johnson concluded the program with interpretive dances.

The committee in charge of the evening were Elsie Graser, chairman, Nora Singleton, Naomi Wilson, Ruby Glenn, Alice Alumbaugh, and Elsie Vaughn.

"New Chic" Told By Lilli Dache

Fashion has outmoded the word "simplicity", says Lilli Dache.

There's a new technique of complicated yet tasteful dress that must be learned if we are to look right in the new Winter clothes, and next Spring.

"Color, drapery and the use of much jewelry and many beautiful accessories make up the new chic," she said. "It takes thought and planning and the ability to decide what part of each costume will be the attention-getter."

The waistline is the dividing line in the new intricacy, Madame Dache points out. "The elaborate skirt, plus decorative shoes or stockings below a simple top and

20 ANDS MEETING

Eight new members were initiated in 20 Ands at the regular monthly meeting held Thursday evening at the Tea Garden. The new members were: Phoebe Wright, Marie Hornsby, Jerry Johnson, Patricia Rouch, Evelyn Mauldin, Betty Stebbins, Margaret Nugent and Joan Botts. Each member was presented with a gift from the club, and a cordial welcome was extended by the membership.

Eliza Burbank, chairman for the evening, introduced Chi Chi Reynolds, who sang three songs, accompanied by Virginia Goldsmith.

The tables were attractively decorated with the autumn theme. by Mrs. Burbank, assisted by Wilma Baugher, Olga Lallane, Mary Wilcox and Beata Althouse.

Guests who were introduced included Ruby Conley, Hazel Baird, Ruth Reed, Donna Ninkovich, Lorraine Webb of Santa Maria and Betty Kirsch, Pasadena. Loretta Seranton, the club's newest bride, was presented with a gift by the members.

The door prize for the evening was won by Helen Rucker and the fish bowl raffle was won by Hazel Lofton.

Good Cheer chairman, Jane Thomas, reported two new babies to members Arlo Ward, and La Rae Caudill. Cards have been sent to Thelma Wood who is recuperating from her recent operation in a Santa Barbara hospital. Alice Soares was extended an inactive status due to her change of resi-simple hat, is one way to plan a costume," she said. "Or else, the very detailed bodice, perhaps jeweled or embroidered, with a most eye-catching hat and jewels. This is the secret; don't be elaborate from head to toe."

A choice between color-plus-simple-outline, or complicated-shape-plus-basic-color, is also necessary. "The new pale or adventurous shades of violet, unusual pinks, greens and off-whites which will be seen next spring, will be lovely to wear. That means that the line of the dress or coat should be simple. But there are also some new silhouettes with very dramatic side flares, amazing new sleeves, and so on. Give such silhouettes full attention; don't detract with arresting colors or too noticeable accessories."

Rabbit Growers Meet In Fresno

George S. Templeton, director of the U. S. department of agriculture rabbit experiment station at Fontana, will speak at a meeting of valley rabbit growers at 4877 Butler Avenue in Fresno, December 7 at 8 P. M.

Subjects will include, "Feeding and Managing Does Maintained for Commercial Fryer Production" and "The Most Desirable Weights for Marketing Fryer Rabbits." The talks will be based on two years of study.

WIND MACHINES

Average cost of operation and depreciation of wind machines in 21 Orange county citrus orchards during 1948-49 amounted to $7.94 per machine hour. This figure is on dual-propelled, gasoline machines.

dence to Hanford.

Treasurer Loretta Scranton read the Presidents budget for the following year; it was accepted. She also announced the club had purchased a government bond.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the Armistice day float committee for their first prize entry in the parade. Gifts were presented to the three members in charge, Mae Keller, Wilma Thompson and Ferne Bain.

Helen Spuhler gave a favorable report on the recent dance held at the Saddle Club.

Jerry Johnson reported a need for Bad weather apparel for the Springville school children and asked any member having any to notify her at Building and Loan office.

Next Bridge section will be a Christmas Party at the home of Mary Beckley with Betty Kugliss assisting, at 7:30 December 8.

Outgoing officers party will be Open House at the home of President Opal Achterberg December 17th from 7 to 9 P.M. Dee Dorsey, chairman, urged all members to attend.

The sewing circle will meet at the home of Althea Ladage on December 13th Circle members are asked to bring small gifts for exchange.

Next regular meeting will be the Christmas revelation party on December 21st. Margaret Britell, chairman.

FARMS SAFETY

in 1948 put Tulare county well ahead of any other valley county. It was pointed out that trend throughout California since 1935 has been toward more farm accidents and that during 1948, medical costs and compensation insurance ran nearly four and half million dollars, not including indirect costs of farm accidents.

Aside from the personnel aspect of accidents, it was stated that since workmen compensation insurance rates are determined on a definite dollar-and-cents matter to the owners of the 8,000 farms in Tulare county.

Most disastrous accidents involve transportation of farm workers, while ladder accidents and accidents involving "working surfaces" and hand tools also run high.

Speaking at the Visalia meeting was William Wilson, state agricultural safety engineer and C. L. Barr, San Joaquin valley area supervisor for state compensation insurance. Temporary chairman of the meeting was Farm a saving in seed cost which would more than pay the slight extra charge for Certified seed.

Certified Seed

And as far as diseases are concerned, only five plants per acre of stripe or smut are allowed for Blue Tag seed. No chance of buying seed of poor vigor from a field like that.

All of this means that the best insurance a farmer can buy for his crop is good seed—Certified seed.

In Tulare county this year a new farmers' organization was formed to promote the production and use of Blue Tag seed. This is the Tulare County Certified Seed Growers association, composed of the farmers growing seed. L. J. Singleton, Orange Cove, is president; Ralph Terry, Woodville, is vice president and Harold Collin, Jr., Orosl, is secretary-treasurer. The first organization of its kind in California, the association is off to a good start.

Farmers, seed dealers and other persons interested in obtaining supplies of good planting seed are invited to contact either the secretary-treasurer of the association or the Farm Advisors office, Visalia, for locations of growers having Certified seed available. The following varieties of grain are being offered: Ramona 44 and Bunyip 41 wheat, Arivat and Atlas 46 barley, Palestine and Ventura oats.

Electrical Firms Form Partnership

Consolidation of the Porterville Electric company and Earl H. Green Electrician was announced this week by Bob Mishler, owner of the former company and Don Roberts of the latter, with the new business to operate as the Porterville Electric company at 430 south Main street in Porterville.

The Porterville Electric company was formed in 1919 by the late Wesley C. Little, who at that time employed Earl Green. Mr. Green later formed his own organization, Earl H. Green Electrician.

Mr. Mishler went to work for Porterville Electric in 1937, then after returning from service with the Seabees in World War II in 1947, bought an interest in the firm in partnership with the Little estate. In 1949, he purchased the interest of Mrs. Little in the business.

Mr. Green operated his business until his retirement in 1947, when Mr. Roberts purchased an interest following service in World War II as a radar navigator with the United States Army Air Force.

Retail stock of the two firms will be combined in the new business partnership, with major lines of electrical appliances, as well as gas, butane and oil furnaces and heating stoves featured. In addition the firm will engage in all types of electrical contracting and installation and servicing of heating systems, cooling systems and pressure pump systems.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Dotters and daughter Joan spent the holidays with Mr. Dotters' parents in Hayward.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. McDonald and daughter Maureen are visiting in Sacramento.

Dick Hubbs, who is attending the University of California in Los Angeles, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hubbs.
